This detached house was built as a bungalow in the 1950's, and enlarged into a house in the 80's. It is situated on the outskirts of the Dickensian village of Higham, a rural location with wide views over rolling fields down to the River Thames and Essex beyond. Visitors comment upon the lovely views especially from the upstairs lounge. It is a peaceful area with countryside walks from the doorstep. Higham is a mixture of commuter belt and agriculture, has a few local shops, 2 churches & doctors' surgery. The train station is 15mins walk away (down hill) giving easy access to London, Canterbury, Rochester & the North Kent Coast. It is 4 miles from the riverside town of Gravesend, and 15mins drive to historic Rochester with its magnificent Cathedral, Castle, Dickensian Centres and much more.

Due to it formerly being a bungalow, the ground floor has the kitchen, dining room with patio doors into the garden, twin bedroom, 2 toilets, shower room & small lounge, while upstairs is the main lounge with a telescope, great for watching River Thames shipping, & Sky TV etc., plus 2 other bedrooms & another bathroom.

The medium sized ornamental garden is enclosed on all sides. However the pedestrian entrance has no gate. There is a pond which is netted for herons, (not children!) and house-swappers are asked to please feed the pond fish daily, top up the bird feeders & water the flower pots. The couple are keen gardeners, but children can run round on the grass & paths...taking care not to damage the plants please!

Gravesend Methodist Church tends towards contemporary in its style of worship and 90+ people meet for the morning service and an intimate 10 or so gather for evening fellowship.
