The house with its traditional mid 19th century character, has two reception rooms, a kitchen/diner and a separate dining room, as well as a downstairs toilet. The partially enclosed large garden is mostly laid to lawn with flower borders, shrubs and trees. There is a decking area with table and chairs and also a BBQ. Children will be pleased to find the swings and ropes to climb on, and all ages will enjoy the table tennis table and table football. There is the ruins of a 12th Century castle in the garden, inhabited at one time by Gerald of Wales.

Brecon Elim Church has a Sunday morning service which around 60 people attend. The style of worship tends to be contemporary, with traditional elements. This is a very welcoming fellowship & there is a great Sunday school for children of all ages. Also there are mid-week meetings & activities for all age groups, not just for the children! 2024 from Margaret in Scotland ref:- 0-945 This is a lovely house – with bags of space – would suit a large or extended family. The kitchen facilities were great and the log burner in the lounge was a real bonus for the wet nights we had! The garden is a dream for kids – with the football goals, swings and lots of space to run around (and play hide and seek) and plenty of seating for adults as well. The information we were provided with beforehand was really comprehensive and very helpful. Top marks for a great holiday!
