This terraced house was built 130 years ago and it retains much of its former character but with modern facilities. It's situated on a busy road which is ten minutes by road to Belfast city centre. It's on a main bus route into the city with a bus stop just across the road, making this an ideal location for exploring the city without the need of a car. If house-swappers come by car there is lots of on street free parking available outside the house.

The house is small but with a well-designed open-plan kitchen and living area, a small utility and one downstairs bathroom. They have Wi-Fi, Disney plus, Xbox games and Game Pass.

(A high chair is available) There's no garden as such, but they are very close to lovely parks, shops and a nice walkway.

The family attend St Jude's Anglican Church Belfast. www.stjudesbelfast.com

The main Sunday morning gathering is of around 50 people from different ages and backgrounds- everyone's welcome.

They meet for about an hour with the aim of helping each other move forward in knowing and serving the Lord Jesus Christ. Crèche facilities and programmes for children and youth are also available, though less so in school holidays.

Playground/park/sport	Lots of parks, play parks and leisure centres close by.
Recommended places of interest	Belfast has many top quality restaurants, lovely old areas to walk around and the famous Titanic Museum, as well as being a great base to explore the rest of Northern Ireland. Day trips to the Giant's Causeway and the North Coast are very popular!
